

Marty Weil does exceptional work for Alchemy magazine. As we have moved forward in expanding our focus beyond the manufacturing industry and into financial services, healthcare, government, utilities, retail and telecommunications, Marty has proven to be a key writing resource that we have relied on to provide us the content critical to our successful relaunch.

Marty's work in following assignment details, in addition to following leads beyond the initial assignment to provide the best article possible, keeps Marty at the top of our minds when assessing freelance writers for use in upcoming issues.
